Bus shelter row takes fresh twists and turns

▶ Punish me if I have committed any mistake, says emotional MLA Ramdas

▶ NHAI issues notice to clear the bus shelter built without taking approval

Mysuru, Nov. 17 (RK,DM & BCT)- The controversy over gumbaz-shaped bus shelter on the Mysuru-Nanjangud Road along the National Highway 766 refuses to die down and the issue is taking fresh twists and turns.

Last night, the domes were painted red instead of the earlier golden hue and this change has been made overnight. The shelter now sports the photographs of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, Suttur Seers Adijagadguru Sri Shivarathreeshwara Shivayogi Mahaswamiji and Dr. Sri Shivarathri Rajendra Swamiji and Krishnaraja Constituency MLA S.A. Ramdas.

As the controversy erupted, Ramdas rushed to Bengaluru yesterday to apprise CM Bommai on the developments regarding the shelter. The MLA and the CM were closeted for a few minutes but details of the discussion are not available.

This morning, Star of Mysore tried to get in touch with the MLA for his comments on the next course of action but the MLA was incommunicado. However, he later spoke to reporters at a different venue where he became emotional. "Please leave me alone, I will fold my hands and request that please punish me if I have committed any mistake and I will reimburse the loss of public money (Rs. 10 lakh sanctioned for the shelter) from my salary," he said.

On a reporter's question that if the controversy was created to remove him (Ramdas) from the party (BJP), the MLA said, "In 30 years, 10 out of 11 BJP MLAs left the party due to the treatment meted out to them and harassment. I am left now, please spare me," he said.

"I am fully focussed on development and my dream is to give good public amenities and public service. I have met the CM and the State Party President to convey my feelings. I have requested them to form a committee to look into the violations of the bus shelter, if any, and I am committed to change whatever the committee recommends," he added.

Following the controversy, City Police Commissioner B. Ramesh, Deputy Commissioner (Law and Order) Pradeep Gunti and Krishnaraja ACP S.E. Gangadharaswamy visited the shelter last evening and took stock of the situation.

NHAI slaps notice on MCC, KRIDL

Meanwhile, the NHAI (National Highways Authority of India) has issued a notice to the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) to clear all encroachments on Mysuru-Nanjangud (NH 766) Highway including the controversial bus shelter that has kicked up a storm.

The NHAI, in its notice, said that it has come to its notice that there are several encroachments along the NH 766. The KRIDL (Karnataka Rural Infrastructure Development Limited) and the MCC is responsible for this and as such the two agencies should clear all the encroachments within seven days of the notice.

Alleged voter data theft: Congress demands CM Bommai's resignation

File FIR against Basavaraj Bommai and arrest him, demands Randeep Singh Surjewala

Bengaluru, Nov. 17 (UNI & Agencies)- The Congress in Karnataka demanded the resignation of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, alleging he is directly responsible for an alleged corrupt electoral practice by assigning a private entity to collect door-to-door voter information.

Congress General Secretary and the party's Karnataka incharge Randeep Singh Surjewala said at a press conference in Bengaluru this morning that Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) authorised a private firm (Chilume Educational and Rural Development Institute) in August to carry out a door-to-door survey of voters 'free of cost', which gathered information about their gender, mother tongue, collected voter ID and Aadhaar details.

Congress General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala addressing a press meet in Bengaluru this morning as KPCC President D.K. Shivakumar, Opposition Leader Siddharamaiah and former Minister M.B. Patil look on.

Posing as Booth Level Officers (BLOs), employees of Chilume collected voter data in 28 Assembly Constituencies of Bengaluru comprising information like caste, religion, age, gender, mother tongue, marital status, Aadhaar Number, phone number, address, voter ID number, email address of voters, he alleged.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Electronic devices are fragile and can have a short life (especially if numerous students use them), unlike a blackboard, which is potentially indestructible. Computers suffer hardware failures. Software bugs, virus attacks, and obsolescent versions can make computers dysfunctional. The school may not have an uninterrupted power supply, which is why U-DISE provides statistics on schools with "computers" as well as schools with "functional computers."

Even if the basic setup, such as a lab room, electricity, hardware, and software, is available, teachers may not be ready or trained to use the computers. And the pressures of completing the syllabus and preparing students to write examinations discourage them from using computers for teaching. Syllabi and examinations do not require knowledge of technology, and the 40-minute period is too short to design a tech-integrated lesson. As a result, even if the school has functional computers (in working order), they may not be "functioning". Government schools in India are thus sites for both computer graveyards (housing dead equipment) and computer museums (housing unused working specimens).

This town has only 2 streets, 3 rows of houses

Hum: Hum is a picturesque hilltop settlement in Croatia's Istria region whose main call to fame is being the smallest town in the world.

Located in central Istria, approximately a 2.5 hours drive from Croatia's capital city of Zagreb, the medieval hilltop town of Hum is home to between 20 and 30 people (21 according to the 2011 national census, and 27 as of 2021).

Its origins are shrouded in mystery, but its first mention in historical documents dates back to the year 1102, when it was called Cholm. A bell and watch tower was built in 1552 as part of the town's defenses, and guards and their families started moving in, but the town never really developed over the centuries, and even today it consists of just three neat rows of medieval houses and two streets.

From Polio to Para Athletics

With no leave and professional training, R.T. Prasanna Kumar had won back to back medals for the country in Para Athletics. However, his efforts paid off when Paralympic Committee of India too was recognised by the Government of India which makes them eligible to receive financial as well as other forms of assistance.

File photo

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Prasanna Kumar said, "Earlier it was difficult for me to manage my profession and my passion for sports as it was difficult to get paid leaves though I was selected for International Championships as Para sports was not included for such facility. I still managed to play for my country even though I had incurred Loss of Pay (LOP) for almost 165 days. However, it was later revoked after the matter was raised at the Assembly Session and finally the then Sports Minister wrote to the officials stating that Prasanna Kumar's case was a special one and hence, leave with salary be sanctioned."

"Only 53 Federations were recognised till 1994. However, after a long fight and with the help of my journalist friends who highlighted my plight, Paralympic Committee of India too was recognised in July 2019 with few more Federations, taking the number of recognised Federations to 65 and now the issue has been sorted out," he added.

"Now the classification has been upgraded for para athletes. I am not concentrating much on Javelin Throw but have moved to Shuttle Badminton," Prasanna Kumar said adding that he had taken part in the Uganda Para Badminton International-2022 where he lost in the quarter-finals.

Prasanna Kumar, son of R.K. Thippeswamy and Rathnamma, has done M.Sc (Physics), B.Ed. He is married to L.R. Sarala and has two daughters.

'Political parties lack internal democracy'

Prof. Ravivarma Kumar releases 'Siddharamaiah-75' book

Mysuru, Nov. 17 (MK&DM)- Maintaining that political parties in India lacked internal democracy, senior lawyer and former Advocate General of Karnataka Prof. Ravivarma Kumar said that it is a matter of concern that important Laws and Acts are being passed without any debates in the Parliament.

He was speaking after releasing 'Siddharamaiah-75', a book on former CM Siddharamaiah written by Dr. Harish Kumar at a programme organised by Vicharavadi Balaga, Mysuru, at RamaGovinda Rangamandira in Ramakrishnanagar here on Tuesday.

Observing that the passing of a Law that allows 10 percent reservation for economically backward sections (EWS) in the General category is a classic example on how such crucial Bills are passed without any debates in Parliament, Prof. Ravivarma Kumar said that the Congress which has over a century old history should make an introspection of itself and take clear decisions on crucial matters and issues. He also called upon the Congress to file a review petition in the Supreme Court on the 10 percent EWS quota in higher education and public employment.

Pointing out that it was the erstwhile Mysore Maharajas who first introduced reservation in 1874, which became a model to the entire country, Prof. Ravivarma Kumar said that this enabled to considerably reduce the influence of Brahmins in governance.

Asserting that reservation issues must be widely discussed across political parties and Parliament, he demanded that reservation be introduced in appointment of High Court and Supreme Court Judges also.

Former Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa, in his address, said that Brahminism practiced by the lower castes is more dangerous than the Brahminism practiced by Brahmin community.

Alleging that communal forces were using people from lower castes to push their divisive agenda, he said that communal elements were ruling the country with dictatorship.

Senior Journalist Dinesh Amin Mattu said that many Congress leaders do not have a clear ideology. Contending that though Siddharamaiah is not an original Congressman, he has a clear cut ideology focussing on welfare and upliftment of the poor, he said adding that Rahul Gandhi is the true successor of Jawaharlal Nehru. He further said that former CM Siddharamaiah who said that his governance was based on Basavanna's principles, is the one who is following the original ideology of the Congress.

Social activist P. Mallesh opined that Vedas and Upanishads were destroying the country. Calling upon the people to follow Buddha's principles, he bemoaned that almost all forward castes were demanding reservation.

Accusing Prime Minister Modi of building a directionless society, he called upon the youths to fight against injustice and exploitation going on in the country.

Opposition Leader and former Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, MLC Dr. D. Thimmaiah, Rajya Hindulida Vargagala Jagruta Vedike President K.S. Shivaram, author Dr. Harish Kumar, 'Nele Hinnele' organisation's K.R. Gopalakrishna and others were present.

Tribal communities and adivasis still far away from getting Constitutional benefits

Mysuru, Nov. 17 (MTY&DM)- Former Karnataka Law University Vice-Chancellor Prof. P. Eshwar Bhat has bemoaned that though the Constitution has guaranteed several rights and benefits to tribal communities and adivasis, they are yet to reach the community.

He was speaking after inaugurating the two-day National seminar on 'The role of voluntary organisations serving in tribal areas' organised jointly by Karnataka State Tribal Research Institute (KSTRI), Department of Legal Studies, University of Mysore (UoM) and School of Law, as part of 'Birsa Munda Jayanti' and 'Janjatiya Gaurav Divas' at the College of Fine Arts Rangamandira in Manasagangothri campus, here on Nov. 15.

Observing that land is very much part of everyone's livelihood, Prof.Bhat argued that conservation of areas inhabited by tribals is crucial for survival and sustenance of adivasis and tribal communities.

Bemoaning that tribal areas are being sold off to members of other communities and land developers through middlemen, he opined that with the selling of land, the culture, traditions and livelihood of tribals too are vanishing. He called for using all provisions in the Constitution to save the tribal communities and their livelihood, from losing out in this era of modernism and commercialisation.

KSTRI Director S. Rajesh Gowda, Prof. T.R. Maruti of Law School, Prof. Ramesh, faculty Souwmya and others were present.

Dr. Vishnu Memorial works under progress near Udbur.

Blue print of Dr. Vishnuvardhan Memorial.

Thirteen years have passed since the death of Dr. Vishnuvardhan and the memorial could not be built till now due to various reasons including land tussle in Bengaluru and Mysuru. According to the family, the memorial will inspire youths who wish to select cinema as their career.

Staging of play 'Tipu Nija Kanasugalu' at Rangayana in city on Nov. 20, 21

- Artistes rehearse under Addanda Cariappa's direction
- For online tickets, log on to www.rangayana.org

Mysuru, Nov. 17 (GA&DM)- The stage is set for the performance of the play 'Tipu Nija Kanasugalu' at Bhoomigeeta in Rangayana premises on Nov. 20 and 21.

More than 70 percent of the tickets for the play, directed by Rangayana Director Addanda C. Cariappa, have been sold out four days before the first performance on Nov.20.

The rehearsal for the show has already been started with the artistes practicing from 9 am till 10 pm every day.

More than 25 artistes, who are assigned to play the role of Tipu Sultan, Hyder Ali, Dewan Poornaiah, Mir Sadak, Lord Wellesley, Tipu's wife, Kodavas, Marathas etc., are honing their acting skills to make the play more realistic and spectacular.

A publicity committee has been formed to ensure the success of the play. Tickets are sold both at the Rangayana counter and through online.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Rangayana Director Addanda Cariappa said that all artistes are keenly working on their roles.

Dismissing the opposition to the play from some quarters, he said that those opposing the play should watch it first and then come to conclusions.

Asserting that the performance of the play is more important for Rangayana than any other issues, he maintained that the play is a narrative of Tipu's real mindset. Noting that all the artistes selected for the play are new artistes, he said that each of them are taught all the nuances of the play. Stating that funds too are a problem, he said this was also one of the major challenges that they are facing.

Pointing out that the play will be staged at Bhoomigeeta, Cariappa said that noted theatre designer Shashidhar Udupa has been working overtime on giving final touches to stage design.

Announcing that there are only 210 seats at Bhoomigeeta, he clarified that there will be no extra seating arrangements after the seats get completely filled up.

Referring to his book 'Tipu Nija Kanasugalu' on which the play is based, Cariappa said that the book has seen its second reprint within days after its release.

Claiming that 600 copies of the book were sold on the first day of the release, he said that Ayodhya Prakashana, the publishers of the book, had sent a reprint order the next day itself, which shows the popularity of his book.

Cariappa further said that the play, which is of three hour and twenty minutes duration, will commence at 6 pm, instead of the usual 6.30 pm. The play will have a 10-minute break after two hours, he said adding that all the ticket holders are required to be seated at least 10 minutes before the start of the show.

The online tickets can be booked through the website www.rangayana.org

LOOKING BACK...

The Fall of the Berlin Wall

A November Anniversary

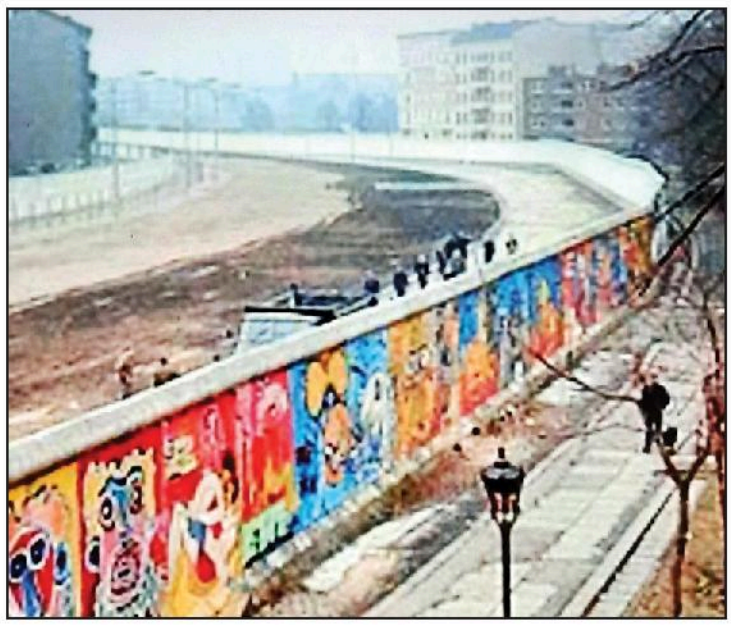
Diplomats, who witness a historical event with international ramifications in the country of posting, are very lucky. In 1989 my husband, A. Madhavan and I, saw the Fall of the Berlin Wall (9 November 1989), a potent symbol of the Cold War. The event changed relations between the States of Europe, their geographical boundaries and political affiliations. In 1990, the Federal Republic Germany (FRG) was reunified with the German Democratic Republic (GDR); the divided country became one.

After World War II, Germany was divided into four occupation zones administered by the victorious Allies. The US, Britain and France combined their zones to create FRG. The area controlled by the USSR became the GDR, a communist government with harsh rules overseen by the Stasi Police.

The Berlin Wall [Berliner Mauer] was built by GDR in 1961 to prevent East Berliners fleeing its regime. Made of barbed wire and concrete, with watch towers for armed sentries, it encircled the city of West Berlin and cut it off from GDR territory. Along the Wall, a no-man's land existed between East and West Berlin. East Berliners were killed trying to cross that strip of land. Poignant, flower-decked memorials marked the "Unbekannt", the tragic "Unknown", who fell in a flight to freedom. A very few succeeded, using bizarre means like a balloon or hidden in the boots of cars.

On 11 May 1988, when Madhavan presented his Credentials as Indian Ambassador to President Richard von Weizsackerin Bonn, [then the capital of FRG], the Wall was still a forbidding presence. Diplomats entering GDR had to go through the entry point, "Checkpoint Charlie".

By 1989, Perestroika and Glasnost had been initiated by Gorbachev in the Soviet Union and there was pressure from East Europe to ease restrictions. The diplomatic corps of Bonn was intrigued by hints given by the US Ambassador Vernon Walters in a TV interview that a big surprise was due soon. Ambassador Walters was a remarkable personality, unconventional, but with a sharply honed political acumen. We were invited to one of his receptions. Instead of having high end caterers, he had arranged for popular eateries like McDonald's to set up little booths in his garden, serving hamburgers but also gourmet spinach and cheese "quiche"! His prophesy about the GDR was soon realised when, in an unexpected move, GDR announced that their citizens could cross the borders without restrictions. In euphoria, rapturous crowds pulled down the Wall.



The Berlin Wall.

Among my papers, I recently found some Hotel Berlin letter paper on which I had made notes while on a visit to GDR in mid-March 1990. The memories flooded back of those days. I could recall East Berliners chugging along in the slow right lane of the Autobahns in their Trabant cars. "Trabbies" became symbolic of the brave, hardy East Berliner. The little children in the cars stared wonderingly as people thundering by in fast cars, blew kisses to them. The homeward bound Trabbies were loaded with luxuries from the West; "Two-in-one" tape recorders, toys, pot plants [red and green Poinsettias a favourite], bananas and canned pineapple. The visitors soon found that generic stores like Aldi, offered the cheapest and best deals and cleared the shelves there.

At the Wall, pieces of its surface were being removed to the sound of hammer and chisel; stacked neatly according to size and colour. The western façade of the Wall was covered with bright graffiti and bits of it priced according to colour and design. An eleven-year-old Turkish girl, eating a large sandwich, beckoned to us while her mother, head covered in a scarf, watched proudly. They were from Kreuzberg, an area of the city where a big Turkish community lived. She sold us three colourful pieces of the Wall for 10 DM each. Other souvenirs were T-shirts emblazoned with "9 November, Ich war dabei" [I was there].

When the Stasi Police was disbanded, people wondered about the future of their canine force. Over twenty German Shepherds, said to be attack dogs, had patrolled the no-man's land between FRG and GDR with their handlers. Now the dogs were unemployed. Would they be put to sleep? However, younger dogs were reassigned to other work, older dogs rehabilitated with families.

The question of the capital came up; was Bonn to remain the capital or should it be Berlin? Our friends in the German Foreign Office who wished to continue in Bonn held "Laugh or Cry" parties on the eve of the announcement; many cried. Our own Embassy also had problems of disposing of property in Bonn and acquiring new buildings in Berlin.

Madhavan was India's Ambassador to FRG, while another IFS Officer represented India in the GDR. A piquant situation arose when GDR, after merging with FRG, ceased to be a separate country; the Indian Ambassador there had to be transferred elsewhere!

Memories of the Wall are linked with David Hazelhoff, star of TV serials like "Knight Rider" and "Baywatch", whose reruns we still see on Indian television. David Hazelhoff is a good singer as well. A fan from Austria who had won a ticket to have lunch with him made him realise his potential in Europe. He was invited by the Germans to sing for a New Year's Eve concert but made it a condition that it should be outdoors, where the Wall had been. So on 31st December 1989, in a bucket crane above the crowds below, he sang the song "Looking for Freedom" to the cheers of his fans. Based on an older German favourite, it cemented his magnetic approach to young Germans.

The Cold War ended with the historic Fall of the Wall, bringing relief from the oppressive menace of the Cold War; peace, a new and burgeoning optimism, individual freedoms and prosperity. Now a possibility of the encircling icy tentacles of a new Cold War looms. Everyone hopes for a thaw■

"It is advised to remove the structure constructed to achieve controversial kinds of issues which is not acceptable and accordingly one week time has been given to remove the controversial structure," NHAI notice said.

"Since it has developed communal issues as per the National Highway Administration Act 2003, this may be treated as notice otherwise action will be initiated as per the Act. Also, the MCC should send a report to the NHAI Project Director within three days. The MCC and the KRIDL will be penalised if they fail to comply with the directions issued," the notice said.

However, speaking to Star of Mysore, MCC Commissioner G. Lakshmikantha Reddy said that they have not yet received the NHAI notice. "We have not received the NHAI notice and will be able to comment only after seeing it. In fact, the MCC is not in any way connected to the bus shelter construction as the shelter is being taken up under the funds released by the MLA," he clarified.

MP Pratap Simha reacts

Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha told Star of Mysore this morning that the NHAI has acted as per rules mentioned in the National Highway Administration Act 2003. "If a bus shelter has to be built by the side of any Highway, approval from the NHAI is mandatory. The NHAI must give an NoC (No objection Certificate) to any construction by the side of the Highway and I am not sure if the NoC has been obtained in this case," he said.

The MP clarified that he has not raked up the bus shelter controversy but only reacted after he saw the visuals on social media. "I have not raised the issue and the controversy. I have only reacted to the visuals that came in social media platforms," Simha said.

Special voter enrolment campaign in Colleges on Nov. 22, 23

Training programme for PU and Degree College Principals and Nodal Officers held

Mysuru, Nov. 17 (RK&DM)- In a bid to make Democracy more successful, the District Administration will be conducting 'An hour for Democracy', a two-day unique campaign for registration of young eligible voters in all colleges across the District on Nov. 22 and 23.

Addressing a training programme for PU and Degree College Principals and Nodal Officers at the ZP office Hall here on Tuesday, Deputy Commissioner Dr. K.V. Rajendra, referring to an Election Commission of India initiative for updating the voter list with the inclusion of all newly eligible young voters, asked the participants to ensure that the names of newly eligible voters are not left out for any reason.

Pointing out that a 'An hour for Democracy' campaign will be held in all Colleges on Nov. 22 and 23, he said that this will be a special voter registration drive.

The newly eligible voters can register their names through Vote helpline App in their own cell phones, he said. He called upon the Principals to motivate all eligible voters to get enrolled in the voters list and educate them on the importance of taking part in the elections for success of Democracy.

Additional DC Dr. B.S. Manjunathaswamy, Election Tahsidlar Ramprasad and other officials were present.

Congress demands CM Bommai's resignation

Chilume has committed a brazen fraud of collecting voter data by impersonating its privately hired employees as Government Officers and issuing them BLO cards, Surjewala said.

Chilume then uploaded the entire vital voter information on a private app called 'Digital Sameeksha' owned by its sister concern, Chilume Enterprises Private Limited, instead of uploading on the Election Commission voter registration helpline 'Garuda' or 'Voter Helpline', the Congress leader said.

He further alleged that Chilume also subcontracted its work to multiple agencies and NGOs across Bengaluru thereby further compromising personal voter data among multiple unauthorised agencies. The voters giving this sensitive private information were made to believe that the information was being given to BLOs as part of the voter registration drive, he said.

CM Bommai, BBMP and the Election Commission are overtly and covertly responsible for theft of voter data, fraud and impersonation through brazen misdemeanours. They are partners in crime in trampling democracy with the evil design of snatching voting rights from innocent Bengalureans. Bommai must resign for being party to the crime in trampling democracy, he said.

"There has to be an FIR against Basavaraj Bommai and he should be arrested. How can a private firm appoint hundreds of BLOs who technically should be Government-appointed persons," he questioned.

"We want to know who permitted a private entity to conduct the survey on behalf of the BBMP? Who recommended the Government to give such contract to a private entity and why the antecedents of the contractor were not checked?" Surjewala said.

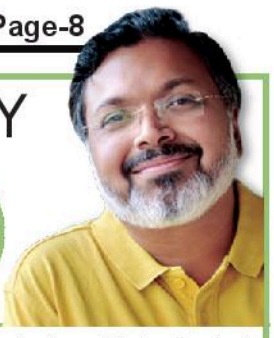
DECODING MYTHOLOGY



Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Royal Power of the Symbolic Lion

Kings across East Asia, whether it's China, Japan, Thailand, Vietnam, Indonesia consider the lion as the symbol of kings. In front of Chinese Palaces, there is the male and female lion, the male holding under his paw a globe representing the world while the female holds a lion cub under her paws.

What is interesting is that lions do not exist in East Asia — they never have. And yet, the lion is an important and integral part of East Asian visual culture. The city of Singapore means the city of the lion, but there were never any lions in the region of Singapore. The same applies to Sri Lanka whose national symbol is the lion. Their king came from India and he was the son of a lion. This could mean the spread of the Narasimha cult that once thrived on the eastern coast of India in Kalinga and Andhra.

But were there lions in India then? Some scientists say that some Asiatic lions did roam once in the dry jungles of Gujarat, Malwa and Deccan regions. This is why in India the lion became the symbol of the king. Kings sit on the lion throne — Singhasan. Across India, Rajput, Sikh and other martial communities identify themselves with the lion with names like Singh and Simha.

Goddess of kings, Durga, is visualised riding a lion. It is the symbol of Buddha and Jain Tirthankara Mahavira, as well as King Ashoka. In temples we find images of lions dominating elephants. We are therefore culturally conditioned to be convinced that the Asiatic lions once roamed across India but are now restricted to Gir. However, there are animal experts and historians who argue rather convincingly that lions are not native to India. They were probably imported by Indian kings for their hunting grounds and zoos, as in East Asia, to demonstrate royal power.

Prehistoric art in caves does not display any lions. There are tigers on Harappan seals, even half-tiger Goddesses, but no lions. Lions are mentioned in the Rig Veda. But Rig Veda is composed by the Aryas which travelled into India with horses from beyond the Hindukush, 3,500 years ago. On the western side of the Hindukush, lions thrived. Persian kings are shown hunting lions, 2,500 years ago. Before that heroes of Mesopotamia were shown wrestling lions over 4,500 years ago. Images of lions are found in Egypt, too. In all these artworks, conquering the lion was an indicator of kingship. Egyptian and Middle Eastern kings fought lions that were native to their lands. Lion hunts demonstrated royal power, triumph over the apex predator. This idea and image spread across the world and the lion became the symbol of kings.

In Indian folklore, the tiger remains the dominant cat, the mount of many Goddesses and saints. The word 'sinha' could have been used generically for all wild cats — from leopards, to lions to tigers. This is similar to the word 'mriga' that is used for all kinds of deers and antelopes, and hooved wild animals. This means Narasimha could also mean just half-cat, not simply half-lion, similar to Purusha-mriga, a mythical man with hooves for feet. But the suggestion that lions are not native to India upsets many people who love the idea of being the alpha predator of the forest. Incidentally, this is true of Europe also. No lions in Europe in recent history, but lions are part of many royal heralds.

Three tiger cubs safe in Nagarahole; make a kill

CCTV cameras capture footage; mother Nayanjikatte Female was snared to death

Mysuru, Nov. 17 (MTY&BCT)- The three tiger cubs, whose mother was snared to death on the outskirts of Nagarahole Tiger Reserve, have been tracked and found to be healthy and hunting on their own. CCTV cameras have captured their visuals of consuming a prey animal after dark.

Their mother, famous as Nayanjikatte Female, fell victim to a snare that was laid to capture wild boars near the Taraka Dam in the Antharasanthe Range of Nagarahole on Nov. 12. Soon after the carcass was recovered, Forest officers were worried that the cubs, eight to 10 months old, might die of starvation as they will not have the capacity to hunt on their own.

Over 30 CCTV cameras were placed in the area that was the territory of 'Nayanjikatte Female' and visuals of the cubs feeding on a spotted deer were captured in the cameras late on Tuesday. This apart, the Forest Department had assigned over 120 field staff for patrolling with a couple of elephants to comb the areas looking for the cubs and two drones were also commissioned for an aerial survey.

There was also a danger from other tigers if the cubs strayed into their territories. As an alternative, the Department was also preparing to shift the cubs to a rescue centre for them to grow further so that they could be sent back into the woods when they become able to hunt on their own.

Now that it has been established that the cubs can lead an independent life, the Department staff are relieved. In fact, the analysis of the CCTV footage establishes that the cubs had made the kill and returned later to feed on it. Following the opinion from wildlife experts, it has now been decided to leave the cubs in the wild but continuously monitor their situation.

"This is good news as there are indications that the cubs have hunted down a prey animal. Prey is aplenty including spotted deer and wild boar in the place where we found the cubs. They are estimated to be eight to 11 months old. If they further develop their hunting skills, the cubs will move to the core area of the forests and gradually establish their own territories. This is their natural process," said C. Harshakumar, Project Tiger Director, Nagarahole.

The cubs have shown their survival skills and they would need monitoring and protection for one year. Usually, a mother protects its cubs for over two years and later they lead an independent life. "Now we know that the cubs do not need any intervention. We will keep a distance from them and monitor their health. Intervention will be decided only if needed," Harshakumar said.

Project Tiger completes 50 years in Bandipur

Mysuru, Nov. 17 (MTY&BCT)- Karnataka's first Project Tiger was implemented in Bandipur Tiger Reserve in 1973 and 50 years (Golden Jubilee) have been successfully completed.

Declared in 1973, the Project Tiger is the first of its kind of project in India which initiated a concerted Tiger Protection Campaign as the tiger population was on the decline due to rampant hunting for pleasure and for trophies to be smuggled across the borders.

When the project was launched in 1973, ten forest areas were identified to conserve the species. They are, Corbett Tiger Reserve, Bandipur Tiger Reserve, Kanha Tiger Reserve, Manas Tiger Reserve, Sunderbans Tiger Reserve, Melghat Tiger Reserve, Ranthambore Tiger Reserve, Palamau Tiger Reserve, Similipal Tiger Reserve and Periyar Tiger Reserve. Since its inception, the project has created 50-plus tiger reserves across the country and helped increase the wild tiger population from roughly 1,800 to 3,000. Notably, fewer than 4,000 tigers are estimated to live in all of Asia.

In Bandipur, the Project Tiger was launched by the then Chief Minister D. Devaraj Urs on November 16, 1973 and during the launch, there were just 12 tigers there. Over the years and due to conservation, awareness and stringent measures against poaching, Bandipur has an estimated population of over 170 big cats as per the latest estimates. The success of the Project Tiger in India has proven that the big cat population can be saved and revived even in a country like India that is among one of the world's most densely populated nations.

Sabarimala opens for 2-month-long 'Mandalam-Makaravilakku' Festival

Sabarimala (Kerala), Nov. 17 (UNI)- The Lord Ayyappa Temple here has been opened for a two-month-long Mandalam-Makaravilakku annual festival beginning today, the first day of Malayalam month 'Vrichikam.'

The temple rituals began with the new Thantri performing Ashta Dravya Maha Ganapathi Homam. The Neyyabhishekam began after Ashtabhishekam.

The Sreekovil (sanctum sanctorum) of the hill shrine was opened by the outgoing Melsanthi (head priest) N. Parameswaran Namboodri in the presence of "Thantri" Mahesh Mohanaru (chief priest) at 5 pm yesterday.

However, no ritual was performed at Sreekovil last evening as part of the ongoing practice.

Thantri Rajeevaru Kandararu lit the sacred fire place (Aazhi) at the Lower Thirumuttam.

Later, the installation of K. Jayaraman Namboothiri as new Melsanthi of the Lord Ayyappa Temple was performed.

Thantri Mahesh Mohanaru performed the installation ceremony by conducting 'Kalasabhishekam' on the new Melsanthi in front of the Sreekovil at 6 pm.

Later the Thantri whispered 'Moolamantram' of Lord Ayyappa in the ear of the new Melsanthi.

The new Melsanthi will take charge today for a one-year term on the first day of the Malayalam month.

The installation ceremony of the new Melsanthi of Malikappuram Devi Temple, Hariharan Namboothiri was also performed by the chief priest last evening.

Later, the outgoing Melsanthis of both the temples returned to their homes after completing their one-year tenure in the temple last evening.

The annual Madala Puja will be held on Dec. 27, 2022 and Makaravilakku on Jan. 14, 2023.

WORD OF THE DAY

Magnanimous

Pronunciation: mag-NAN-uh-mus.
Meaning: Magnanimous is a formal word that means "having or showing a generous and kind nature."
Origin: When you see anima, animus, or a similar formation in a word, it's often an indicator of something alive, lively, or spirited. The Latin word anima means "breath" or "soul" and animus means "spirit." In magnanimous, animus is joined by the Latin word magnus, meaning "great." Basically meaning "greatness of spirit," magnanimity is the opposite of selfishness. A truly magnanimous person can lose without complaining and win without gloating, and angry disputes can sometimes be resolved when one side makes a magnanimous gesture toward the other.
Example: "[Former Olympic champion, Mark] Spitz was in a three-day period between his finals, the last of which was a full day off. At the routine Thursday night press conference for medal winners, Spitz asked to be excused from questions so the spotlight could play on his three relay teammates 'because this is their first gold medal.' ... It was a wonderfully magnanimous gesture, but I knew from past interviews that winning the 100-meter butterfly that night was much bigger to him than he was indicating..." — Bob Hammel

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Magical realism

Meaning: A literary genre in which magical features and storylines appear and are accepted as everyday reality.
Origin: In the 1920s an exhibition of pictures titled Neue Sachlichkeit (New Objectivity or New Matter-of-Factness) was presented in Mannheim, Germany. Magical realism was coined by Franz Roh in his article Magischer Realismus ("Magic Realism"), describing the works shown at the event. The term is now more often applied to a literary genre which appeared much later. This "magical realism" came to prominence in the 1960s with the work of South American writers like Miguel Angel Asturias, Gabriel García Márquez and Jorge Luis Borges, and was first applied to their work by writer and critic Arturo Uslar-Pietri. One Hundred Years of Solitude by Gabriel García Márquez, 1967, is often described as the seminal magical realist story. In the original Spanish the term was "Lo real maravilloso", which translates as "the marvelous real", gives a good impression of the nature of the style. Magical realism has links to Science Fiction and Fantasy and the works of the English romantic poets, amongst many genres.
